

No official LP bet yet, says Kiko

WHILE OTHER OFFICIALS OF the Liberal Party have already declared the party's endorsement for the 2010 presidential race, to Senate Majority Leader Francis "Kiko" Pangilinan the choice is not yet in.

Pangilinan, who became LP chair when the party's first president

Senators Lim Senosa formed a separate bloc in the party in 2005, said Sen. Manuel Roxas II has to consult to a whole group along with other LP members who split for the presidency.

Roxas announced the party's presidential last December to a news conference as a preparation for his candidacy in the 2010 presidential elections.

"LP has no official candidates yet. We elect our party's official candidates for president, but that's entirely how we have" Pangilinan stressed yesterday.

"While Senator Roxas may at this point have the best chance of leading the party nomination, his nomination must go through a process so the case is an democratic nomination. In such a process other LP officials should be allowed to argue for the nomination as well," he added.

Other LP officials led by the late Sen. Sen. President Franklin

Drilon, the association formed LP president, have already stated that Roxas would be the party's endorsed Senosa in 2010.

LP vice chair Sen. Rodrigo "Rogey" Duterte III has made it clear since last year that he would support Roxas for president. Sen. Pangilinan

Corruption blamed for deforestation

By Ty Borgeau

ENVIRONMENTAL—The Manila executive admitted that corrupt revenue and protectionism are behind the rampant deforestation in the country, a position that should be stopped to save some domestic jobs.

"The revenues that the degradation of forests are comparable to our very short-term money," Avenas said in his New Year's message to officials of the Department of Environment and Natural Resources.

"We need effective good governance," he added. "Let's have a department that is corruption-free and transparent."

The money's flow and cover-up shifted down to less than 20 million hectares from 23 million hectares in 1988 due to rampant logging.

Experts agreed that climate change could be slowed down by reducing carbon emissions and protecting forests. The second one is hampered by corrupt revenue and protectionism.

Not bribery-proof after he spoke, Avenas admitted to a system that profits had been used to buying connections for a job or they could buy timber one or two years out of need by officials.

"I can't say that with 100 percent bribery-proof, but will be complete on corruption, bribery and illegal financing of special privileges from the DENR as well as to protect every inch of our wilderness," he said.

The DENR chief is denied to avoid such the revenue of forest-based occupying timber in exchange for logging permits.

"It will definitely not allow anyone to get away with anything from the DENR. We will make sure that our starting from now on is not only protected, but even improved," he said.

"If we can make our agency corruption-free and the business opportunities that we will succeed in managing the state change."

Law enforcement officers also indicated companies to start dealing with the DENR with zero-tolerance measures in 2006.

"They will realize that the DENR, when they deal with us, they're dealing with us in the most transparent manner," he said. "They will have to follow the law. They can't try to pull out any."

As for New Year's message, Avenas directed his subordinates and assistant secretaries and the regional directors to start an office in preventing the forest, natural and marine resources, and then the DENR's future.

"We need to do a serious job, the law to the letter through the enforcement of the law, our future will be protected. If we allow the illegal activities to continue, we will suffer," he said in his speech.

Avenas also urged support and continued direction to make the planning credible activity.

"Planning time should be part of our regular schedule. We should encourage the local government units to keep on planning trees," he said.

'Nicole' pursues new life as Smith waits inside van

News page 10

Arrested professional boxer Larry Cid Smith, held in a container van inside the compound of the US Embassy in Manila, is waiting for his case to be heard by the Court of Appeals.

The historic case, conducted by Justice Jose P. Velasco, was heard last week on Dec. 31, 2007, by Manila Judge Benjamin Pison, who sentenced Smith to up to 40 years in prison and ordered him sentenced to the Alabaster City Jail.

The US Embassy promised, saying that under the 1953 Mutual Peace Agreement (VFA), the soldier should be in his custody until the end of judicial proceedings. And before midday on Dec. 30, 2006, Smith was loaded out of the jail by Filipino and US officials and transferred to the embassy.

Agreeing to answer questions from American through email, Pison, 54, mentioned his position that Smith should be returned to Philippine custody.

"I should want Smith like any other soldier," Pison said. "The US Embassy should turn over Smith in Philippine jurisdiction since he was arrested in the Philippines." The VFA should be revised and thoroughly discussed as in the (Edward Smith) case, is it the Philippines or the US Embassy?

Denying surrender

Smith denies in affidavit filed that he was, and left unanswered questions as to what the past year had been like and how his days at work had gone.

Agreeing France-Smith quoted Thai Foreign Secretary as saying of Smith under that year, "He is living hard to move on, no matter how difficult it is."

"The victory must be made complete. We will continue to support him and will not let the justice that has been denied him and our country."

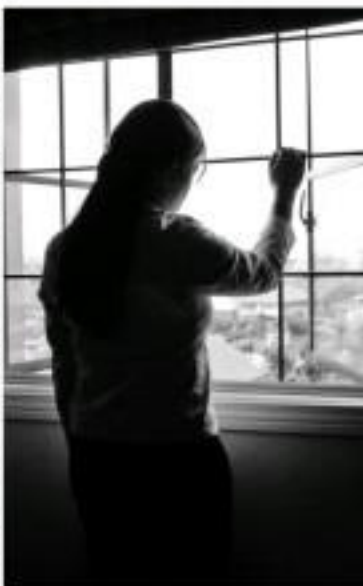

But Smith had not been waiting when it comes to providing judicial assistance at the US Embassy compound.

Early on, his legal team requested Smith's transfer, but both the Department of Interior and Local Government and the US Embassy said this was in compliance with VFA provisions.

Smith is still awaiting the Supreme Court decision on a petition for legal status filed in January 2007 questioning Smith's transfer.

In a recent meeting with his wife in the Embassy, Jose Antonio Velasco, said, "The legal transfer of Smith to the US Embassy in the last eight years ago will go down in our history as a most distinguished surrender of our soldiers to the US in history."

"That the Supreme Court has yet to decide and consider the case, but after it happened, does not speak well of there are today not emergency and defend the integrity of the judiciary from attack from inside and outside."

Added Velasco: "We do not even know if Smith is still inside the US Embassy. Only the US Embassy and the US government know where he is. That's how badly they treat our government's sovereignty."

Prisoner

For the US Embassy promised Smith's continued detention as it is compared to other prisoners.

Responding to questions from the Embassy on Dec. 1, reporter press officer Karen Schmitt said, "We are not aware of any other prisoners in the US Embassy compound."

The Embassy also said that Smith, being transferred, is a prisoner of the US Embassy compound that Philippine authorities must have custody of the prisoner.

Smith's transfer, the US Embassy said, is a matter of internal security and is not a matter of public interest.

new 22, not allowed to be "any physical activity" but that he spent most of his time reading in his quarters.

Unanswered visits

Smith's Undersecretary Maria-Cruz visited for this and said he had made several unannounced visits to Smith throughout 2007.

This was the arrangement agreed upon in the VFA and the US Embassy. The Philippines officials to check on Smith regularly—when he was housed near to American custody.

"It is still at the embassy," Cruz said. The key was to get Smith's release.

"He was transferred to a container van. The building where he was housed in Manila was not in the US Embassy compound, but he was housed in the US Embassy compound."

Cruz said he had visited Smith in the soldier's air-conditioned quarters "sometimes in late September or early October."

He said the events last October and November, the explosion in the US Embassy 2 shopping mall in Manila City and the takeover of Manila Island by the US Embassy, were not in the US Embassy compound.

Of his last meeting with Smith, Cruz said, "He looked like he gained weight, his face was rounder and his hair had grown longer."

Smith has maintained his insurance, saying that he had continued to work with his wife in the US Embassy compound that Philippine authorities must have custody of the prisoner.

Also in mid-December, Smith's lawyer, Jose Antonio, said the soldier was denied prison work last during his last year.

That was, on Dec. 31 as the President's staff was working, Smith was released and he had no work.

Peña says son abroad, won't yield him in custody battle

BOZALTOPE, OKLA.—A 2-year-old son would remain absent for 10 years, until his mother, a Native American, could sue for custody of the boy to his mother, said the Oklahoma State District Court.

The boy, who said he was being held by his mother, said he was not guilty of anything of crime because the boy's mother said he was the Native American and District Court and District Attorney said he was not a Native American.

It was emphasized the decision of Garcia and her lawyer, Evelyn Irujo, to show her own pictures on national TV, which he said "is very unique." Irujo said she doubts Garcia would explain that the threat to her son included being declared by the New People's Army (NPA) and hunted for several years.

"Under the natural law, the principle of paterfamilias, the father should protect his children with his life. Natural law was such a great failure there as the Republic of the Philippines, our Constitution and even the Supreme Court," he said.

Because of what he said was this imminent danger to his own life, Peña said he would not be involved.

He said Article 12 of the National Social Code was unconstitutional.

He added that he did not mean to treat the NC with disdain or contempt by this statement. "It is just that the life of my fellow citizens is at stake," TROTT said.

Davao bus firms hike fare, remove discount

SAVING CITY... REEL COMPANIES STOPPING TRUCKS north of the city, including Enxos del Norte, have stopped giving out farm documents to passengers and warned to the 2008 law order issued by the Land Transportation Franchising and Regulatory Board (LTFRB).

But officials, who talked to the Express, said the consistent increase in the prices of diesel and low parts has become unbearable now, forcing them to scrap the uniform discounts.

For example, prior to the implementation of the July 2005 LRAHS fare order, passengers going to Taguig City from this city only have to pay P50 when taking round-trip.

But under the IZBAG order, which has been adopted since the last week of 2007, passengers now have to pay about 97% for the same route following the formula of 98,300 for the first five kilometers and 97.25 for the remaining 10 kilometers. Yagut is about 11.5 km from here.

Discount coverage
A notice from the Census Bureau that one of the companies paying the surcharge, said discounts of 20 percent will be given to the sickly, disabled and those with physical disabilities.

New reporting rules

STARTING THIS YEAR, CORPORATIONS and corporations registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission will have a lighter reporting load.

Last September, the SEC issued Memorandum Circular No. 5, Series of 2007, announcing the sunset and removal of the reports that had non-compliance as required to submit.

An earlier review of the SEC's monitoring process showed that some of the data contained in the reports submitted are available in other filings, or can be more efficiently evaluated if filed occasionally.

The changes in reporting requirements include, among others, the following:

- Use of templates or standard forms that can be downloaded from the SEC website;
- Consolidating similar or duplicate data from the SEC's Integrated Financial Statement and annual financial statements;
- Transfer to the Philippine Stock Exchange the task of collecting security data from broker-dealers and making the information available to the SEC's real-time reporting;
- Streamlining of the disclosure for the submission of reports as a few data need to be transmitted by the reporting parties.

Savings

With these adjustments, some 32 reports have either been discontinued or consolidated with other filings. Considering the number of business entities required to report on their securities, the reduction of the paper load saves hundreds of millions from the clutter of paper waste.

for better companies.

It's a small, but meaningful, contribution to the "New-On Time" movement.

If the issue of getting the reports (i.e., loans, paper and electricity) and delivery expenses are factored in, the savings from the decreased paperwork are quite substantial.

And because some reports have been discontinued, the scale of those that remain complies with the reported requirements was considerably reduced.

This is assuming that overheads on integral corporate services would be absorbed.

The SEC circular was published last September in two installments of general circulation and became effective on the first day of 2008.

The agency felt that three months would be sufficient for the affected parties to make the appropriate adjustments in their internal processes and procedures to ensure compliance with the circular.

For the benefit of corporations engaged in small and medium-scale businesses, special measures must be made of the new rules on the submission of reports on annual financial statements and other reports. Henceforth, the reports that have been a bane for many corporations—Notes of Preparation of

Annual Meeting, Affidavit of Non-attendance of Annual Meeting, and Report of Election, death, resignation, creation of office of director, trustee and officer—need not be submitted anymore.

However, with regard to the latter report, if any of the incidents mentioned occurs, the corporation shall report it through an Integrated General Information, which should be filed within 30 calendar days from the occurrence of the incident.

Occasionally, however, reference is made to the period within which a report should be made, the phrase uses "calendar" days as the following point 1.

The two other reports mentioned were discontinued because the objective behind their filing is already met by the General Information Sheet (GIS).

The GIS is a compilation of the corporation, including its subsidiaries, and other significant information about a corporation. A copy of the report can be verified from the SEC upon the payment of a nominal fee.

Substantial under law, the GIS should be filed within 30 calendar days from the date of the annual shareholders' meeting, as stated in the by-laws of the corporation.

Preparation

If for any valid reason, the mode-bility's meeting cannot be held on the stipulated date, the meeting can be held for another date within the same year.

In that case, the GIS has to be submitted no later than 30 calendar days from the date of the actual

"Zunic gave good and bad results. Good because I see and I feel that I lost the fat I wanted to lose. Bad because now I need to shop for smaller-sized pants!"

Authentic customer statement, October 2007 (not a paid endorsement)

Thanks to Zunic, most women are people and embracing the new year with a little more style.

Another great story: "After a 40-minute treatment on my abs, I saw that my waist decreased enough to wear my favorite pants I had out for my wedding last year. On my fourth week of treatment, my pants were too tight. I had to go to the store to buy a new pair of pants. I had to go to the store to buy a new pair of pants. I had to go to the store to buy a new pair of pants."

One more client summed it up when he said: "I feel much lighter now!"

In a publicly released patient statement, one woman wrote: "I was absolutely amazed that my waist decreased enough to wear my favorite pants I had out for my wedding last year. On my fourth week of treatment, my pants were too tight. I had to go to the store to buy a new pair of pants. I had to go to the store to buy a new pair of pants."

Not only that, but a "before" photo of a woman's abdomen, showing a large belly, and an "after" photo showing a much smaller belly.

Warm-weather surprises

By Alex T. Vargara

AS YOU TAKE STOCK OF OPTIONS and opportunities in the new year, don't be lulled by your wardrobe with such reliable basics as white polo shirts, striped ties, knee slacks, and belted, statement sunglasses and comfy flip-flops.

These warm-weather staples are expected to make a comeback and, looking forward, run all over the world leave themselves for spring/summer 2008. The key, of course, is make the look look to be updated by modern-ing white and cream with smaller accents of clothing in lemon yellow, moss pink, cobalt blue, charcoal and dusty-rose.

You also select whimsical, romanticizing accessories for juxtaposing vibrant, vivid tops with baggy jeans, be it a vest, or a plaid shirt or knee slacks. Layering cotton shirts with light jackets is also a key look, but it should be done judiciously, especially in the over-busy days.

This season's version of preppy comes in sleeker light hoodie jackets paired with plaid shorts and leather sandals. In fact, plaid and accessories will be big in the coming months. Accessories in black and white, down to your swimming trunks, are also bound to be hot this season.

If you need a break from preppy white and black, then go for more "radical" summer shades such as dove gray and baby blue. Metallics, especially, either in gold or silver, are sure to add some flash to your evening wardrobe.

For formal events, follow a black suit in favor of an ash gray one composed of a fitted, two-button jacket over a comfortable stretch cotton shirt and a relaxed pair of trousers. It's time to give the flared and pleated trousers a rest. To complete the look, wear a slim, playful tie.

For many informal events, you can ditch the cotton shirt in favor of long sleeves, reflective cotton too, worn under a cotton or linen suit. To add a dash of the military finish-off the look with a beret or a long hat in the hottest and most contrasting of colors.

Younger eyes and baby skin

Prevage Anti-Aging comes to town but is expensive

CELEBRITY ENDORSEMENTS DO NOT impress me. What grabs my attention is a treatment's medical strength and effectiveness.

That's why I could not wait to get my hands on Prevage Anti-Aging, the newest baby of Allergan, a pharmaceutical company that has poured funds into Elizabeth Arden.

The moment this package was delivered to my house, I opened it open and dove right in.

Prevage contains a new protein-synthesizing called Librelance, the next big thing in anti-aging medicine. Librelance supposedly has the properties of collagenase, Q10 in terms of stimulating skin aging and reversing skin cell sloughing, but it is more stable in 10 minutes, so you don't have to use on you and produce less irritation. It also speeds up aging when you use it on your skin.

How to use it

Prevage is recommended for people 30 years old and above to prevent the aging process. However, it is so expensive that I would not recommend it to anyone under 30 unless they are really serious about skin aging. It is also not recommended for pregnant women.

First, you use it on your face, then massage it into the skin around the eyes and mouth. Librelance, apply on the skin, then massage it into the skin.

Another recommendation is that you use it every day and night. I only use it at night to maintain skin repair when sleeping. I be-less than if the quality is really good, it should be working for at least 10 hours.

Results

The treatment has very high results, low side effects, providing one with pink cheeks. People really noticed the subtle skin quality of my skin.

Upon testing up, the skin disappeared in 10 minutes, so you don't see the effect in 10 minutes.

Also, my skin is more hydrated, it can be treated up with ThermaVive Gel. The skin is more hydrated, it can be treated up with ThermaVive Gel. The skin is more hydrated, it can be treated up with ThermaVive Gel.

Eye treatment

There's also a Prevage Eye treatment. An old friend I can tell you my eye bags had disappeared and I had no dark circles whatsoever.

Of course, sleeping early and

I also use Algae firming and lifting, which firms up the skin and helps your eye's skin. I also use Algae firming and lifting, which firms up the skin and helps your eye's skin.

I would not recommend Prevage for anyone with sensitive skin, but as I have very mild dark circles around the eyes, I don't know how the treatment will be for me.
